

UNKNOWN WORLD OF THE DANUBE BETWEEN MONASTERY AND STONE

Expedition from Engelhartzell to Jochenstein – two exhibitions, a European project for sustainable environmental education

The Danube has gouged its bed deeply into the foothills of the Bavarian forest and thereby created biotopes for rare members of flora and fauna. Green lizards, lynxes and opalescent insects are at home in the steep forests, wild mountain torrents and mighty rocks.

If our way of thinking doesn't change soon, what can still be seen today, is at risk of vanishing. In the interest of a sustainable environmental education a few of these treasures have been uncovered on both sides of the Danube.

HAUS AM STROM | Jochenstein

The adventure exhibition and the event offerings invite the young and the young at heart to a fun exploration and discovery of the Danube valley.

Visitors can choose from an interactive and entertaining experience or just quietly observe and listen.

The new adventure exhibition in the Haus am Strom allows a cheerful and easygoing approach to important issues of the Passau Danube narrow valley: nature, energy and water. The Water Lift in the House shows how nature and technology, ecology and economy become a symbiosis – wrapped in an unique architecture which visually reflects the topic of water.

05 | SOUND CAVE – WATER MUSIC

Music moves – In our sound cave, water dances to classical compositions as well as rock melodies. Relax and unwind with these visualised acoustic waves.

03 | LIFE IN AND AT THE CURRENT

How is culture at the Danube developing and how do humans use the Danube? A life-sized beluga model – the giant of the Danube – is the main feature in the Haus am Strom.

ADVENTURE DANUBE NARROW VALLEY

There is also a lot to discover around the "Giant of the Danube".

DANUBIAN POWER STATION JOCHENSTEIN
Another highlight is to be found right next to the Haus am Strom: Germany's largest hydraulic power station. Just crossing it is an adventure.

DANUBE BOAT TRIPS WURM & KÖCK
The largest excursion shipping company connects both stations with Passau and Linz. Schedule at www.donauschiffahrt.de

HIKING & CYCLING
The upper Danube valley offers multiple bike lanes consisting of steep paths, challenging slopes and canyon forest. There's a lot going on here with plenty of choice for all ages.

MONASTERY ENGELSZELL
Austria's only Trappists monastery, known for its monastery liqueurs and the Trappists beer. www.stift-engelszell.at

INFOPOINT NATURA 2000
A real impression of nature in the European sanctuary is conveyed via photo slides, audio recordings and video films.

"The aliens are coming – new animal and plant species in our homeland" is the name of the exhibition on show in the area of the "Water adventure Mini-Danube" in Engelhartzell.

Who are these aliens, which blend amongst our domestic plant and animal species and displace them? How could they spread and which impact do they have on the balance of the species? These and other questions are pursued in the exhibition "The aliens are coming".

01 | GIANT AQUARIUM W. FISHES OF THE DANUBE

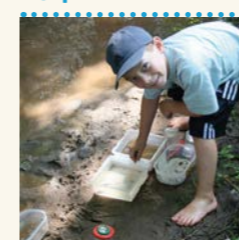

The giant aquarium – centrepiece of the exhibition. Beluga – the giant of the Danube – and sterlet are being shown up close here. While the beluga does not exist in the Upper Danube Valley anymore today, the sterlet has survived until now due to being a self-reproducing species.

02 | PLANTS ON THE TRAMP

In the entrance area of the exhibition non-domestic plants (neo-phytes) are on display, whose appearance partially shape our cultural landscape. Others again are agricultural crops, whose rapid growth have invaded our natural habitat and smother our domestic plants.

03 | INTERACTIVE PLAYING AREAS

See – comprehend – shape. At the water adventure Mini-Danube the Danube is relived from source to outlet in six stations. An "alien-quiz" and a fish puzzle are to be solved on the "aliens path", which leads to the giant aquarium.
